

Abstract: Post reform: The Archivreferendariat and the MA curriculum in Vienna

The Archivreferendariat at the Archives School (Archivschule) Marburg was reformed in 2013 in accordance with the Bologna reforms. This makes a comparison with the MA curriculum at the Austrian Institute of Historical Research (Institut für Österreichische Geschichtsforschung) in Vienna more significant. However, the result resembles that of 2012. The program in Marburg trains university graduates for the profession of archivist and management positions; the Viennese curriculum prepares them for scholarly historical research and at the same time qualifies them for archivists' work. The two curricula are the results of differing traditions. The Vienna curriculum fits more smoothly into the European university pattern than the Referendariat.
